KOKI TEC and JUKI Agree on the Transfer of Inspection Equipment Business

KOKI TEC Corporation. (hereinafter referred to as KOKI TEC) and JUKI Corporation (hereinafter referred to as JUKI) have agreed to transfer JUKI's inspection equipment business, which is part of its industrial equipment operations, to KOKI TEC.

Following adjustments among stakeholders of both companies, the transfer is scheduled for July 2025.

Through this business transfer, we aim to expand the inspection equipment business by integrating KOKI TEC's soldering technology with the inspection technology developed by JUKI.

Background of the Business Transfer

JUKI's inspection equipment business primarily involves inspection devices for mounted circuit boards and automated visual inspection measurement devices.

Meanwhile, KOKI TEC has been developing soldering equipment for mounted circuit boards and has been considering the realization of new soldering equipment by integrating its soldering technology with inspection technology to meet the increasing demand for advanced inspection.

Against this backdrop, both companies agreed that expanding the business and integrating technologies at KOKI TEC is optimal for further growth and expansion of the inspection equipment business.

Furthermore, the sale of inspection devices for mounted circuit boards by JUKI will continue post-transfer through collaboration with KOKI TEC.
