Overall : As a result of initiatives focused on improving profitability—such as shifting our emphasis toward the high-end market and optimizing production capacity through product lineup consolidation—sales decreased, but profitability improved significantly.

Operating profit for fiscal year 2025 increased by ¥3.7 billion year on year, returning to a positive ¥2.7 billion.

2

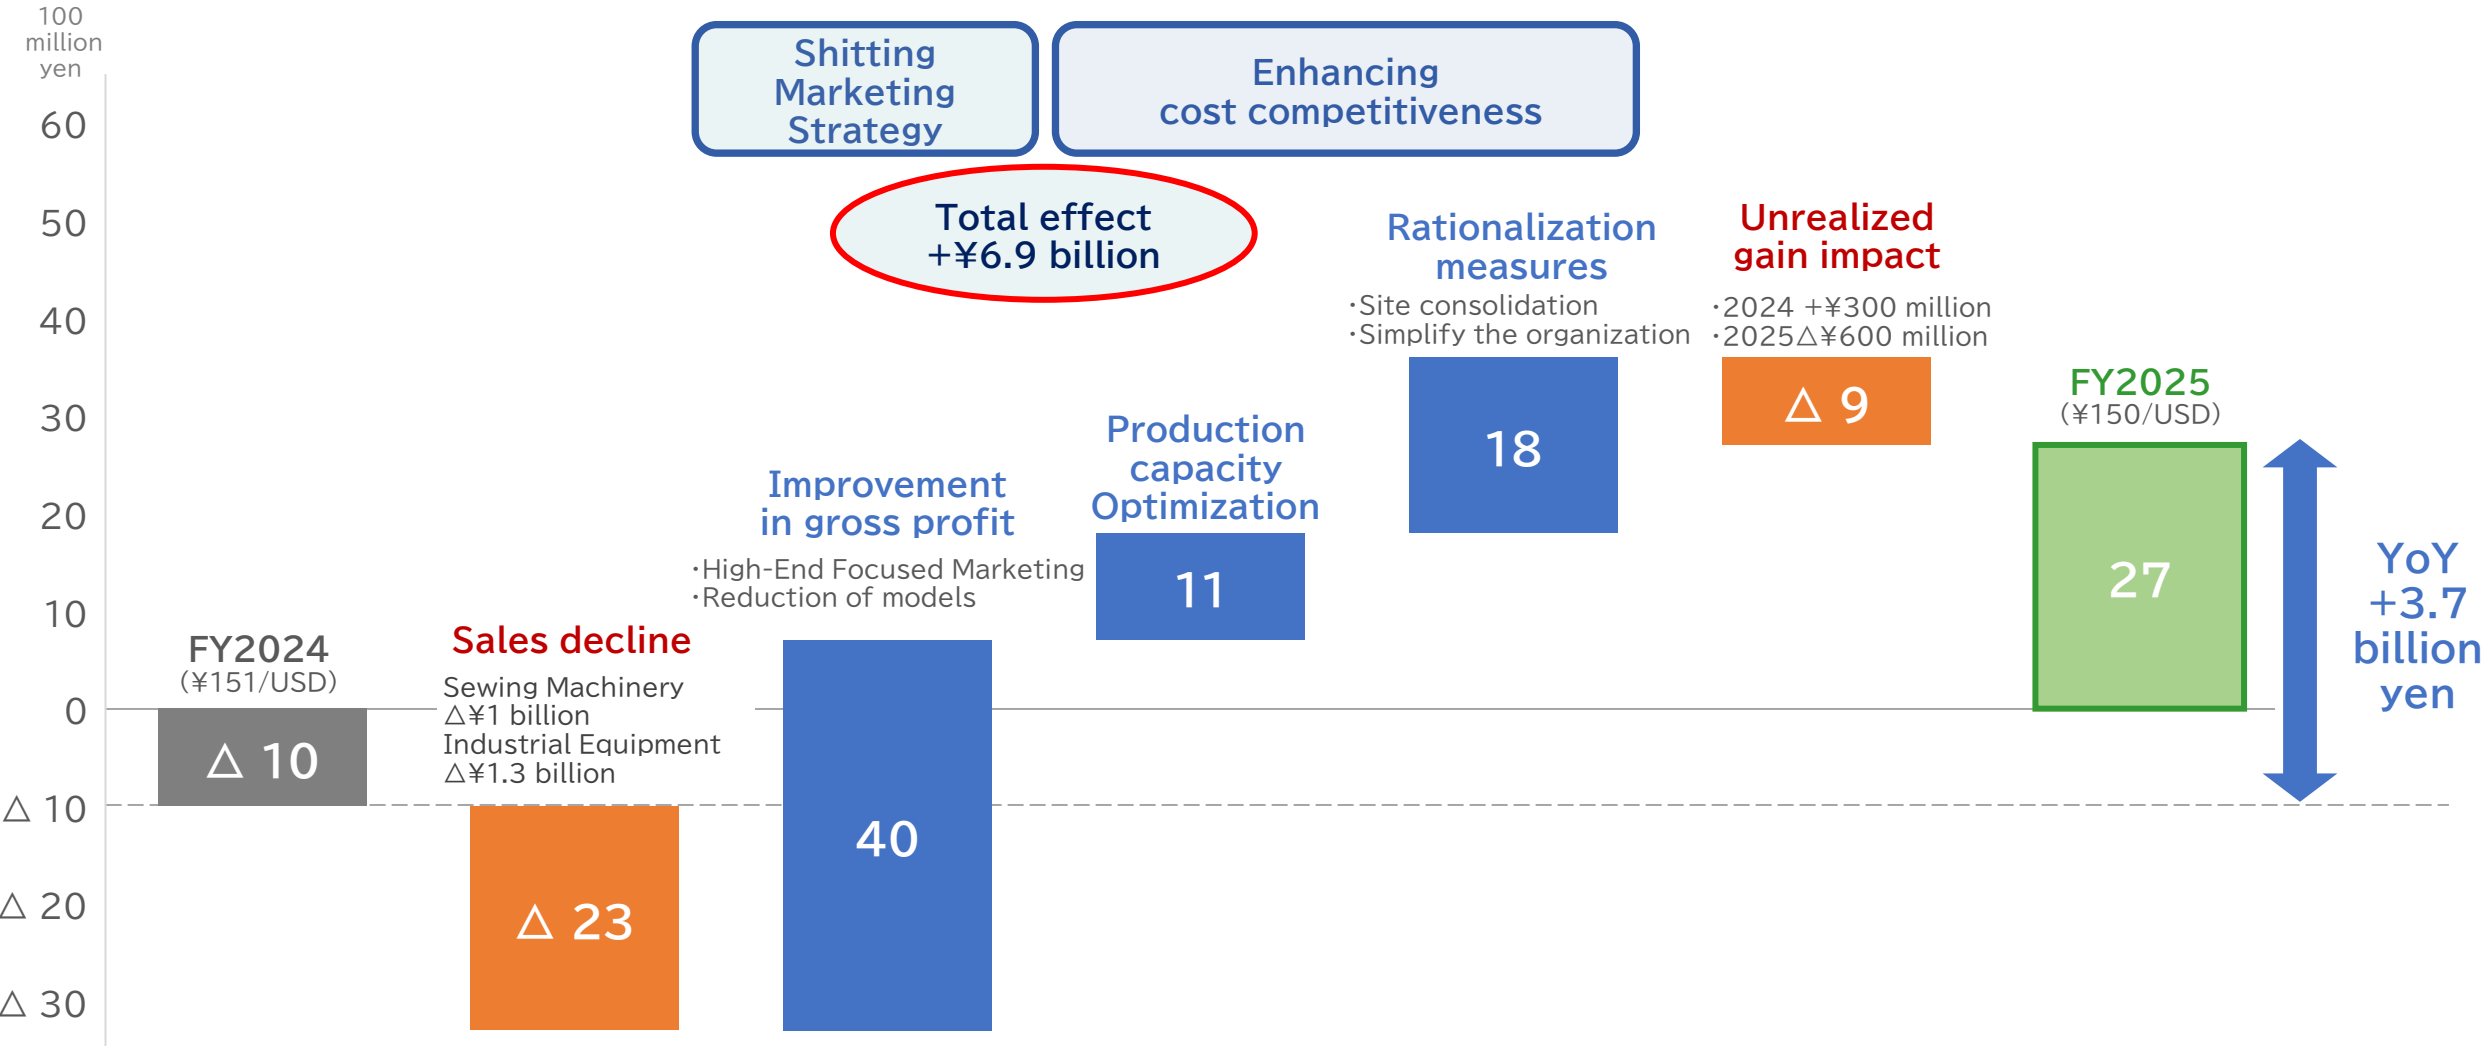

Sewing Machinery : Demand was firm from Area between India & Africa and Through-China-distributors, while Asian countries, which saw some cautious moves to invest due to the U.S. mutual duty impact, seemed to have bottomed out. In addition, demand for automotive-related products in Europe and the United States recovered rapidly in Fourth Quarter.

3

Industrial Equipment : Our major market China conditions showed signs of bottoming out and have been gradually recovering. Meanwhile, sales in Europe and the Americas remained sluggish, and overall sales were sluggish. In the Americas, although caution remains due to tariffs and high costs, there are signs of recovery as companies have begun to adapt to changes in the environment.

FY2025 Operating Profit YoY Analysis

Improved ¥3.7 billion in operating profit by a High-End Focused Marketing Strategy and optimization of production capacity by reduction of models
