Notice Regarding the Designation of JUKI Shares as a TOPIX Constituent Subject to Transitional Measures and Future Initiatives

JUKI CORPORATION (the "Company") hereby announces that the Company's shares have been designated as a TOPIX constituent subject to transitional measures in the periodic review of TOPIX effective October 30, 2026.

1. Overview

Japan Exchange Group, Inc. ("JPX") has been reviewing the constituents of TOPIX in phases to enhance the index's market representativeness and functionality as an investable index. In October 2024, JPX announced new periodic review rules covering all market segments.

Under these rules, TOPIX constituents are selected and replaced based on their relative rankings in terms of free-float-adjusted market capitalization and other criteria. Based on the August 31, 2026 assessment, the Company's shares did not satisfy the criterion required for continued inclusion in TOPIX. Accordingly, JPX announced on October 7, 2026 that the Company's shares had been designated as a TOPIX constituent subject to transitional measures.

Comparison of TOPIX Inclusion Threshold and JUKI Metrics (Based on August 2026 Assessment Data)

Metric	TOPIX Threshold	JUKI
Free-Float Market Capitalization (JPY billion) (Top 97% on a cumulative basis)	about 42.0 (JPX-Announced Value)	13.5
Share Price (JPY)	2,008	643

2. Impact on the Company

As a result of this designation, the weighting of the Company's shares in passive investment funds linked to TOPIX is expected to decline gradually, which may place downward pressure on the Company's share price. This matter does not affect the Company's compliance with the continued listing criteria. The Company will continue to operate as a company listed on the Prime Market of the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

3. Future Initiatives

The Company has long recognized enhancing corporate value and improving its market valuation as important management priorities and will continue to pursue the following initiatives:

- (1) Enhancing profitability
- (2) Improving capital efficiency
- (3) Advancing initiatives to enhance corporate value
- (4) Strengthening investor relations activities

The Company sincerely appreciates the continued support of its shareholders and investors.
